General limitation and Exclusion:

1. New Horizons Home Exteriors & Window Company., Inc. makes no other express or implied representation or warranty of any kind regarding policy coverage. New Horizons ("Company") assumes no responsibility for improper usage, failure of product due to faulty building construction or standard maintenance, improper handling, failure to contact us concerning any service immediately. After market painting, staining or tempered with product will void this warranty.
2. Acts of God (hurricanes, tornadoes, flood, etc.) acts of war, riots, fire; stress resulting from localized heat, modifications, and vandalism are not covered by this warranty.
3. Color variance may occur between replacement parts and weathered original material.
4. Condensation on windows or patio door glass is the natural result of the excess moisture in the house and does not indicate a faulty installation. Changes in temperature and humidity may create temporary conditions of condensation. With too much humidity in you home and the result of new installation of new windows, you have cut drafts, which were previously an escape route to the outside for humid air. Now, this humid air is staying inside your home. Because the outside air is lower in humidity, the air inside tries to get out to help equalize the humidity. Since the air cannot escape as easily as it did before, the humidity condenses on your windows, giving them a sweaty or foggy appearance on the surface of the glass, not the internal of the air space of the insulating glass. Cutting the level of humidity in your home will control the problem. Moisture condensation on your new windows is just a sign that your home is "tighter", more draft free and while being more energy efficient. The windows themselves are not the blame. They would be just a source if information telling you that there is a humidity problem. See window condensation brochure for the simple steps to lower the humidity. .
5. Labor warranty does not transfer to Owner's immediate transferee.
6. This warranty policy is exclusively for windows and installation application installed by New Horizons Home Exteriors & Window Company., Inc. Any additional products, such as doors, installed by the ("Company"), in conjunction with the window contract/installation will carry the warranty provided by the manufacturer.

This warranty gives you specific legal rights, and you may also have other rights, which vary from state to state. Certificate holder coverage applies to products purchased from:
